PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LOCAL CONSULTANCY LAUNCHES NEW WEB SITE IN TIME FOR TWENTY FIRST!

Revell Research Systems will launch its new web site today at <http://www.rrs.co.uk>. The new web site provides information about the work of this local management and technology consulting practice based in Exeter. The long established firm will be celebrating its twenty-first birthday later this year.

The business was established in 1985 by Alastair Revell shortly before leaving Exeter to start a Mathematics degree at the University of Birmingham. He graduated in 1988 and returned to the city to expand his business in IT consultancy.

The web site was developed internally by Revell Research Systems who produce web sites for the clients throughout the United Kingdom.

Revell Research Systems is a management and technology consulting practice that specialises in strategy development, systems engineering, networking and software development. It delivers its specialist skills through its consulting, training, support and implementation services.
